

Holleran Squash Camp

Lawrenceville School

2010: June 6-11 and July 25-30

For boys and girls ages 10-17

Reputation for: Building confidence and determination in developing squash players. Close supervision.

Camps held annually since 1995

The camp is an intensive week of squash training, competition, lessons and fitness. Evening activities are organized and there is close supervision.

The camp is known for its excellent 3/1 ratio of campers to coaches.

All campers receive private lessons.

Demer Holleran, Camp Director: Demer is currently the squash director at Fairmount Athletic Club, with 14 squash courts outside of Philadelphia. Demer was the US Women’s National Team Head Coach from 2003-2007. She coached the University of Pennsylvania women’s team from 1992-2001, leading them to the national championship in 2000. Demer was US Women’s National Singles Champion from 1989-1999.

Coaches:

Craig Thorpe-Clark will be our head coach this year. Craig, an Australian native, will once again provide inspiration to the campers. His thorough approach ingrains strong technique in the campers. He is Head Coach of the men’s team at the University of Pennsylvania and leads a talented, top-5 team.

Kelsey Engman will be a lead coach this year. She has coached the Columbia University and Bates College teams as well as being a full time pro at Fairmount Athletic Club.

Strong College Players will join more experienced coaches in running a productive and fun week for the kids.

Lawrenceville School: Lawrenceville has one of the best squash facilities in the country with 10 new glass-backed, air-conditioned courts! The school is conveniently located just one hour from both New York and Philadelphia. The scale of this beautiful boarding school campus makes walking between the dorm, dining hall and courts very easy.

Camp tuition is $1150 and includes housing, meals, transportation to and from the airport or train station and a camp T-shirt. The camp has limited enrollment, so sign up early.
